In 1951, Brigadier H. Bullock made an extensive listing of Holy Trinity's inscriptions. He included a list of those in the Church's crypt which were from the work of Mrs McPherson circa 1948. Knowing Mrs McPherson's style of work, from St.Mary's, I believe Brigadier Bullock copied from her list verbatim. He only included burials not mirrored in memorials within the Church. I have been unable to trace Mrs McPherson's original work. I have both checked and added to their surveys.

When in the churchyard was transcribed in 1977, it was not possible to record the following stones as they were obscured by the wooden vestry. situated at the north-eastern coner of the church. The vestry was removed several years ago which cleared the way for this addition to the survey. It is now possible to record memorials 211 & 413 in full. Memorial 416 retains its original number within the survey as although it was not located in 1977, its existance was noted by Brigadier Bullock.
